HARRIET PERRY —
Senior Research Scientist
USM - GCRL
Center for Fisheries Research and Development

Affectionately known in the research community as the Crab Lady, Harriet Perry is the retired former director of the Center for Fisheries Research and Development at the USM Gulf Coast Research Laboratory (GCRL). Harriet is currently involved in a study examining potential impacts of the Deepwater Horizon oil spill on reproduction in female blue crabs in Mississippi. In this very special GCRL Science Café, Perry will discuss all aspects of blue crab life history and the status of the blue crab in the Gulf of Mexico.
